SECOND SON-IN-LAW

Miss Eleanor Wilson and Secretary McAdoo Married In Blue Room.

GUEST LIST WAS LIMITED.

Less Than Hundred Present at The Simple Ceremony—Scene of Beauty.

Washington, May 8.—Miss Eleanor Randolph Wilson, youngest daughter of the President and Mrs. Wilson, last night became the bride of William Gibbs McAdoo, secretary of the treasury, in the historic blue room of the White House.

Less than a hundred persons—and but few officials—heard the low-toned voice of Rev. Sylvester W. Beach, of the First Presbyterian church, of Princeton, N. J., where the Wilson family had worshiped for years, as he united the two in marriage.

It was a simple ceremony. For the President and Mrs. Wilson it was a touching moment as they gave away a daughter for the second time within a year. Around them stood their relatives and friends—a small group—for it was a family affair, much the same kind of home wedding one would see in any American household, though the historic interior of the White House with its masses of lilies and ferns, the uniformed aides, and the presence of members of the cabinet and the vice-president preserved for the function an official aspect.

COMMISSION'S DECISION

Upholding The Coal Rate Promise With The Illinois Central.

"The Illinois Central asks to be relieved from the operation of the long and short haul clause between Nortonville, Carbondale, St. Charles and Isley to Hopkinsville, and desires to be privileged to charge 60 cents the ton for the transportation of coal from said points to Hopkinsville in order to meet the competition of the L. & N., who charge 50 cents per ton, the latter rate being fixed by an order of the commission.

Post-Prandial Program

President and Toastmaster.....	Mr. Ira L. Smith
The Unvarnished Truth.....	Rev. A. R. Kasey
Shooting Stars.....	Mr. L. E. Foster
Salute the Flag.....	Judge W. T. Fowler
Rubber Necks.....	Mr. John Stites
The Prodigal's Return.....	Hon. Barksdale Hamlett

The Eleventh annual banquet of the Athenaeum was held at Hotel Latham Thursday night and proved to be one of the most successful, and enjoyable ones of the series.

Tables were set in three long rows across the dining room from north to south, with covers for 101. President Ira L. Smith sat at the south end of the center table, and the other speakers were placed at the ends of other tables.

The guests began arriving at 8:30, but it was 9:15 when they entered the dining room and 10:30 when the speeches began.

The dinner was served in four courses under the personal direction of Landlord Noe, and the menu was especially delightful and well served.

Mr. Smith, as Toastmaster, was at his best. His opening remarks were brief and appropriate and his introductions witty and complimentary. The speakers took the floor well presented and not embarrassed by having to begin by replying to remarks made by the toastmaster or feeling that valuable time had been consumed in trying to anticipate what they were to say.

Rev. Dr. A. R. Kasey was the first speaker and handled his somewhat ponderous theme in a light and humorous vein, interspersing it with some good jokes.

Mr. L. E. Foster, another speaker who made his debut, made a hit with a humorous treatment of his subject, which he divided into fixed stars, comets and meteors, and wound up with a poem abounding in puns that he palmed off on Mr. Geo. E. Gary, the regular poet of the Society.

Judge W. T. Fowler's subject "Salute the Flag," though hastily prepared at the eleventh hour, was an address of literary excellence of a high order, with a strong denunciation of the Mexican dictator and concluding with a beautiful tribute to the flag. Judge Fowler is one of the society's most graceful and attractive orators and fully sustained his reputation as such.

Mr. John Stites in his discussion of "Rubber Necks" injected a great deal of humor, originality and adroit criticism into a speech that kept up a round of merriment. His effort was conceded by all to be his crowning effort in eloquent and captivating post-prandial oratory.

Superintendent of Public Instruction, Barksdale Hamlett, was the last speaker, and he declined to figure in the role of prodigal in discussing his theme, "The Prodigal's Return." He paid a beautiful tribute to his "home town," and said he came to "eat and be merry," not because he was a prodigal but because he liked veal. It was after midnight when Mr. Hamlett arose, and somebody's 1913 spring chickens that had survived the ax created much merriment during Mr. Hamlett's speech by crowing lustily a dozen times in a coop near the dining-room window. Being a good Democrat, Mr. Hamlett was used to the sound and did not let it interfere with his speech. At 12:45 the happy gathering was dismissed by the President.

Getting Ready to Advance on Mexican Capital From Three Sides.

Washington, D. C., May 8.—Gen. Carranza now claims that three converging campaigns are in active operations, each within 300 miles of Mexico City. Gen. Obregon with 15,000 men, operating from the Pacific coast side, has captured all the intervening territory, is threatening Mexico City from the west. Another division Gen. Carranza reported, has fought and won a battle at Penasco, near San Luis Potosi, which is 300 miles north of Mexico City. This is the southernmost point which the constitutionalists have reached in central Mexico and with the army now attacking Tampico they declare that the general advance on the Mexican capital is to be made within a few weeks from three sides.

Friday the fur began to fly from Kitty. The teams, six in all, opened hostilities before record breaking crowds. They are well prepared for battle, having had plenty of seasoning after a strenuous period of training, and the players were on their toes ready to get into action. The big features of the inauguration were the addresses and initial tosses by the mayors of the various towns. Hopkinsville opened at Owensboro with the Hustlers, the Cairo Kats tussled with the Indians at Paducah, while Clarksville tackled Henderson.

President Bassett attended the Owensboro opening and Mayor Hickman was down for a speech and a toss. The Owensboro bunch have elected to call themselves "Hustlers." The first games here will be with Henderson Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The opening game will be as usual a big one, if the weather does not interfere, as hundreds of tickets have been sold.

Manager Kahloff says: "Our boys are in splendid condition, and we will undertake to win two, if not all three games from the Hustlers during these series. On account of a badly injured knee, I will be out of the game at least two weeks, but I do not believe my absence will weaken the team one bit."

BARRELS OF WATER

From The Smithson Well Being Used Daily In The City.

The rapid growth in popularity of the sulphur water from the L. H. Smithson wells, a few miles south of town, shows no abatement. Mr. Smithson, who began putting the water on the market last year finds himself kept busy all of the time this year delivering the water in the city. He brings it in every day in glass jugs and some days sells as high as 100 gallons. His customers are all over the city and there are many voluntary testimonials of the good results of the health-giving water. Unlike most sulphur waters, it has other ingredients that make it quite palatable and one soon comes to like it. It is pumped from a deep well and is cool and delicious at the well and when juggled and kept in a cool place retains its strength and medicinal qualities for many days.

CONSTRUCTION OF COLONY POULTRY HOUSE

Interior of Laying House on Government Poultry Farm at Beltsville, Md.

Poultry can be raised successfully on any well-drained soil. A light loam, which will grow good grass, is well adapted for this purpose; while a very light, sandy soil, through which the water leaches freely, will stand more intensive poultry conditions, but most of the green feed for the fowls kept on such a soil will have to be purchased. A heavy clay or adobe soil, is not as well adapted to poultry raising, as such land does not drain readily and it is much more difficult to keep the stock healthy, says Farmers' bulletin 574, department of agriculture.Long stationary houses, or the intensive system, saves steps, but it is easier to keep the birds healthy and to reproduce the stock under the colony system where the birds are allowed free range. Breeding stock, and especially growing chickens,
should have an abundance of range,
while hens used solely for the production of market eggs may be kept on a very small area with good results. The colony house system necessitates placing the houses, holding about one hundred hens, apart two hundred to two hundred and fifty feet, so that the stock will not kill the grass. The colony system may be adapted to severe winter conditions
by drawing the colony houses together in a convenient place at the beginning of winter, thus reducing the labor during these months.

Roof and Front.

The roof is the most expensive but a most important part of the poultry house, and should be water-tight.
Shingle roofs should have a one-third pitch, while those covered with paper or metal may have a less pitch, or be almost flat; however, the greater the slope the longer the life of the roof.

Colony House Used on Government Poultry Farm.

The shed or single-slope roof is adapted to houses up to sixteen feet in width. It is one of the easiest styles to construct. It allows a high front to the house, and furnishes a northern slope for the roof on which roofing paper will last longer than on a roof which faces the south.The combination and semi-monitor roofs are adapted for the buildings from sixteen to twenty-four feet wide, while either of these styles, or the monitor and the gable roof, may be used for wider buildings. The combination roof on a house over sixteen feet wide gives the best head room at the least cost, reduces the amount of surplus air space, and gives a neat appearance to the buildings; while the semi-monitor and monitor types are best for wide houses which have a central alley, particularly brooder houses.The semi-monitor house usually faces south, while the monitor type of roof is frequently used on buildings facing east or west. The gable roof is used extensively for two-story buildings, for brooder houses, and for incubator cellars. This style of roof is usually ceiled at or slightly above the eaves, or the globe may be filled with straw or some kind of absorbent material, which tends to keep such houses dry and warm. The A-shaped roof is used for growing coops and colony houses which, with a wall 18 inches high, provides a large amount of floor space with a minimum amount of lumber; but increases the roof surface, which is the most expensive part of the house.A large amount of glass in the front of the house makes it warm during the day and cold at night, as glass radiates heat very rapidly. Unbleached muslin, or a light weight of duck cloth, is used for curtains in the fronts of poultry houses. This cloth should be thin enough to allow a slow circulation of air without a draft, which object is defeated by using too heavy a grade of duck or by oiling or painting the cloth. The front of the house should be high enough so that the windows or openings will allow the sun to shine well back during the winter.

Floors.

The best kind of a floor depends upon the soil and the use of the house.
On light, sandy, well-drained soils a dirt floor is satisfactory, especially for small or colony henhouses. A board floor is generally used where the level of the floor in the house is from one to three feet above the ground surface and in portable houses on land which is not well drained.
Board floors harbor rats and rot quickly, and should be raised some distance off the ground so that cats or dogs can get under them, which also allows a free circulation of air to prevent the wood from rotting. Cement floors are adapted to long permanent buildings, brooder houses, incubator cellars, and to all permanent houses where an artificial floor is required and can be built on the ground level.

Roosts and Dropping Boards.

The interior fixtures of the pens should be simple, portable and inexpensive. Roosts are usually placed next to the end or back walls, six to ten inches above the dropping boards, while the latter are from two to two and one-half feet above the floor. They should all be on the same level, otherwise the birds will crowd and fight to get on the highest roost. Scantling 2 by 4 inches, with the upper edges rounded off, makes good roosts with either the wide or narrow surface up.
Allow seven to ten inches of roost space per fowl, according to the size of the birds. Roosts should be placed about fifteen inches apart, but the outside ones may be within ten inches of the edge of the dropping boards.

Kinds of Material Used for Building.

Houses made entirely of solid concrete are cold and damp, but concrete blocks may be used with good results.
Hollow tile makes a very good poultry house, and it can be bought in some sections at a price which compares favorably, considering its durability, with wood. This construction is well adapted to incubator cellars and brooder houses, or to any buildings requiring double walls and good insulation.All kinds of wood are used in building poultry houses, and any durable lumber which is available for that purpose may be used. The lumber which is to be used for the outside construction should be well seasoned, otherwise the shrinkage will leave cracks in the walls. The best shingles are made of redwood, cypress and cedar;
and white pine is also used. Asbestoshingles are quite durable, but more expensive than wooden ones.

Whitewash.

Whitewash is the cheapest of all paints and may be used either for exterior or interior surfaces. It can be made by slaking about ten pounds of quiklime in a pail with two gallons of water, covering the pail with cloth or burlap, and allowing it to slake for one hour. Water is then added to bring the whitewash to a consistency which may be applied readily. A weatherproof whitewash for exterior surfaces may be made as follows: (1) Slake one bushel of quiklime in 12 gallons of hot water; (2) dissolve two pounds of common salt and one pound of sulphate of zinc and two gallons of boiling water; pour (2) into (1), then add two gallons of skim milk and mix thoroughly. Whitewash is spread lightly over the surface with a broad brush.

Dancing Once Part of Worship.

We read in the "Book of the Dead," which contains the papyrus of Egypt's most ancient seers and scholars, that dancing was a part of Egyptian worship. In fact, the hieroglyphics themselves, denoting adoration, triumph after battle, gloom at the death of a monarch or a high priest, were often figures of men or women in dancing postures.

BURIAL PLACE OF KING JOHN

Writer Declares Interment of Famous English Monarch Took Place at Worcester.

In the American Law Review there appeared an article in which the writer made an allusion to King John of England, and said he went "to his unlamented rest at St. Wolstan's." Now, is this correct? King John was buried at Worcester and in the cathedral there, and his body has slept in that spot until now, unless, like a streak of morning cloud, it has melted into the infinite azure of the past. In 1797, for the purpose of identifying the resting place of the king and his remains, a committee of citizens was appointed to investigate this matter. The body was identified and all that remained of it placed in a new mausoleum, where it stands today as one of the objects of interest in Worcester cathedral. Shakespeare, in his "King John," puts in the mouth of Prince Henry the following words: "At Worcester must his body be interred, for so he willed it." Thus we see King John was buried in Worcester cathedral, and it is therefore inaccurate to say he was buried at St. Wolstan's. The memory of King John is not cherished with the feeling that has followed the lives and deaths of some of England's sovereigns, and he will be remembered only as the monarch from whom was extorted the great charter of English liberty, from which this country has received a large part of its valued inheritance.—Letter to St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

HAD HIM IN A SAFE PLACE

Politician Knew Just Where to Put Man Whom He Wanted to Save From Indictment.

The vice-president of a big corporation in the city of New York heard one day that an old friend of his had fallen on unfortunate days, and stood a fine chance to be indicted by the grand jury. Accordingly, he hastened out and found a political friend.

"John," he said, giving him the name of the man threatened with indictment, "this fellow is a close friend of mine, and I don't want him indicted. Can you fix it for me with the next grand jury?"

"Leave it to me," said John. "I'll fix it."

"Fix it sure?"

"Absolutely sure. Leave it to me, I tell you."

A few weeks later the rich man read in a newspaper that his old and unfortunate friend was on the grand jury. He immediately called up friend politician.

"I'm afraid you misunderstood me," he said excitedly. "I didn't ask you to put that fellow on the grand jury!"

"Now, listen," said the politician, very bored, "you asked me not to let him be indicted. Well, I've fixed it. There'll be no mistake. Grand juries are grand—to themselves."—Popular Magazine.

The New Cigarette Law.

The Cigarette Law passed by the late Legislature is an exceedingly stringent enactment, and, if enforced, will effectively dispose of the despised and condemned "cigarettes."

It enacted by the General Assembly of Kentucky:

Section 1. That it shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to sell, offer or expose for sale, or give away, or furnish, or cause to be given away or furnished, to any person under the age of eighteen years, any cigarette, or cigarette papers, or any other paper prepared to be filled with smoking tobacco for cigarette use.

Section 2. That it shall be unlawful for any person, under the age of eighteen years to smoke, or to have about his person, or premises, any cigarette or cigarette papers, or any other form prepared to be filled with smoking tobacco for cigarette use. Any person violating the provisions of this Section shall be punished by a fine of not exceeding five dollars. Provided, That the Court of Justice trying the case may remit the penalty for violation of this section, upon the disclosure by the person charged with the offense of the name of the person, firm or corporation, from whom he obtained any such cigarette or cigarette papers.

Section 3. That it shall be the duty of every constable, policeman, town marshal, sheriff or his deputy when he finds any person under the age of eighteen years smoking a cigarette, or with a cigarette or cigarette paper in his possession, to immediately inquire of such person where and of whom he obtained such cigarette or cigarette paper, and upon failure of any person to give such information when requested by such officer, the officer shall arrest such person and take him before a Justice or other officer having jurisdiction, to be dealt with as provided in Section 2 of this Act. Upon information of such person to said officer of the violation of any of the provisions of Sections 1 and 2 of this chapter, he shall immediately report to the prosecuting attorney of the County, who shall have the person giving such information, along with any other witness, having any knowledge of the transaction, summoned before the Grand Jury at its next session, for investigation. Any officer, failing to perform the duties required of him by this section, shall be fined not exceeding five dollars for each offense. Justices of the peace and Police Judges are hereby given concurrent jurisdiction with the Circuit and Criminal Courts of this State of offenses under this Chapter.

Section 4. Every person, who shall smoke or use a cigarette or cigarettes, in any school building or any building or such parts thereof as may be used for school purposes, or upon school grounds, while children are assembled there for lawful purposes, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction, shall be punished for each offense by a fine of not less than one nor more than five dollars.

Section 5. Any person, firm or corporation, violating any of the provisions of this Act, where punishment is not otherwise provided, shall be liable to a fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than twenty-five dollars for the first offense, and for each subsequent offense shall be liable for a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars, nor more than three hundred dollars, and on failure to pay the fine and costs of prosecution, shall be required to work the same out on the public roads.

Section 6. All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act, are hereby repealed.

LAST DAY OF CARNIVAL

Successful Week's Engagement Will Come To a Close To-night.

The carnival will close a week's engagement here tonight. The attendance throughout the week has been good and a record breaking crowd is expected tonight. On last night nearly three thousand people passed through the gates and the night before the crowd numbered more than two thousand.

The shows are all receiving liberal patronage, in fact the majority of them are packed at each performance. The shows will be open all day to-day and the crowds will no doubt be much larger than any previous day of the week.

The carnival is given under the auspices of Company D, and they have had a very successful week, although rain interfered to some extent with the festivities on two nights.

Forest Notes.

There is a considerable amount of yew in California, and makers of bows are seeking material there for archery sets.

Western yellow pines cones, to the amount of 6,378 bushels, obtained on the Bitterroot national forest, Montana, yielded 9,482 pounds of seed. The average cost of the extracted seed was 41 cents per pound.

Result from western white pine plantations three seasons or more old show an average of 97 per cent success. On average white pine soil planting can be conducted for from $5 to $6 per acre.

Forest botanists recognize only one cypress in the United States. Its range extends from Delaware southward around the coast into Texas and up the Mississippi valley to Illinois and Indiana. It is one of the few cone-bearing trees which drop their leaves in the winter. The heartwood of cypress is noted for its decay-resistant properties.

The Chinese national conservation bureau is considering reforestation at the headwaters of the Yellow River. The government report shows that this will ameliorate the torrents and cause a more regular flow from the now denuded uplands. It is acknowledged, however, that this reforestation may not have an appreciable effect within the lifetime of the present generation.

In preparation for the coming fire season in California, 110 miles of fire lines have been built on the Sierra national forest.

The imports of matches into China greatly exceed in value any other wood product. Most of the matches come from Japan.

Redwood sawdust is being used by vineyardists in California for packing fresh table grapes. It takes the place of the ground core used for imported Spanish grapes.

Hyndman Peak, Idaho, the highest named peak in the state, is more than 12,000 feet high. Several unnamed peaks near it are of about the same elevation. All are on the divide between the Sawtooth and the Lemhi national forests.

A two year-old plantation of Douglas fir on the national forests show 94 per cent of the trees living. Extensive planting of young trees in Washington and Oregon are costing only $8 per acre. Direct seeding of lodgepole pine has successful without exception on the Arapaho national forest, Colorado. Several of the areas sown two and three years ago show from 5,000 to 10,000 seedlings per acre.

GIRLS IN MAY DAY ATTIRE

Present Beautiful Play of Endymion And Give Pretty Drills.

The young ladies of Bethel College were fortunate in having the best day of the week for their May Pole exercises on the campus Thursday afternoon. They finished ten minutes ahead of a little flurry that blew up about 5 o'clock. The program consisting of song drills, the ceremony of crowning the queen, the presentation of the three act play and finally the May Pole dance, was attractive throughout and a large crowd was present.

The young ladies who distinguished themselves in the play of Endymion were Misses Lucile Adams, Winnie Potter and Grace Holland, of Paducah; Lulu Berry, of Sturgis; Nanette Caldwell, Crit McKnight, Elizabeth Gary, Mary Clay Gilliland and R. E. Coleman, of the county. There were many others whose parts were creditably taken in the drills and as "immortals" in the play. Several sweet songs were given by Miss Laura Lowe of the faculty and Miss Potter and a duet by the Misses Chapman, of Pembroke.

Miss Fay Hulshizer, the cultured and efficient piano instructor, presided at the piano, which was on an elevated platform in the campus surrounded by a bower of evergreens. The young ladies all deserve great credit. They had to do much hard work to prepare and stage the performance, which was presented free, though it was well worth a good price of admission.

One Disadvantage.

It was the day that Uncle and Aunt Lewis had set apart for their annual visit to the city and among their varied and prospective purchases was a clock.

"Now," said the dealer, "we have an elegant line of clocks. Here is something particularly attractive. When the hour begins, a bird comes out from the top and sings 'Cookoo!' For instance, I turn this hand to seven o'clock, and the bird comes out and sings 'Cookoo!' seven times."

"Waal, waal! Don't that beat all!" cried Uncle Lewis, enthusiastically. "Mother, let's have one!"

But mother was more conservative. "No, no!" she replied, meditatively, still eyeing the clock longingly. "That sort of thing might do for folks that have got lots of time on their hands, but it'd take me half the forenoon every day to take care of that bird."

Family Pride That Kills Ambition.

The discovery of a carpenter whose father, grandfather and great-grandfather practised the same craft has been commented upon in several newspapers, and at Lamberhurst, in Kent, England, there is a family who have been innkeepers for four centuries. In countries where the caste system prevails such a record would be thought utterly insignificant. Grant Duff notes in his diary the answer made by a punkah-puller in Madras to an English lady who suggested that he might improve his position. "Mem-sahib, my father pulled a punkah, my grandfather pulled a punkah, all my ancestors for four million ages pulled punkahs, and before that the god who founded our caste pulled a punkah for Vishnu."

Ignorant Butcher.

Mrs. Putton-Ayres had picked up a few French phrases which she worked into her talk on every possible occasion. Entering the butcher shop one day, she inquired if he had any "bon vivant."

"Boned what, ma'am?" asked the butcher, puzzled.

"Bon vivant," she repeated. "That's the French for good liver, you know,"—Boston Transcript.

MR. MIELKE'S WILL.

Son John Given Farm--Other Bequests.

The will of the late F. Mielke was probated Thursday. The instrument was dated March 6, 1897. He directed that his wife have the use and occupancy of the residence and such household goods as she may need during her life and that his son, John, who is named as executor, make suitable provision for her maintenance. To his daughter, Tinnie, of Watertown, Wis., he bequeathed $100, but this amount was paid to her two years later, as stated in a codicil. The following other bequests were made to his children: Edward Mielke, $1,000, Lena Mielke, $500; Laura Brackrogge, $300 Helen Mielke, $300 and John Mielke, the farm of 204 acres, embraced in three tracts.

In consideration that he had heretofore given his daughters, Eliza Steimke and Amlia Kuenze, all he was able to give, and the fact that Josephine Masener was married and well fixed, one dollar each was bequeathed to them in remembrance, stated the decedent, in substance.

INCUBATOR OF QUEER DESIGN

Chinese Device Does the Work of Hatching, but Its Defects Are Easy to Perceive.

Certain of the Chinese in the interior districts adjacent to Amoy employ a unique method for hatching both hens' and ducks' eggs. In this connection it may be of interest to note that some years ago a missionary living near Amoy suggested to the natives that the patent American incubator might be of great service to the local Chinese—only to learn of their own process, which is very economical. Usually a large percentage of the eggs produce live chicks.

The breeder first takes a quantity of unhusked rice and roasts it, cooling it down by fanning or by allowing the wind to blow through until it is lukewarm. He then spreads a three-inch layer of the rice in a wooden tub and places about 100 eggs thereon; another layer of rice, this second and subsequent layers being but two inches in thickness, is spread over the eggs. Each tub will have six layers of rice and five layers of eggs, so that there will be 500 eggs in each tub. The rice should be heated once every 24 hours, the eggs being taken out at such times. When the eggs are again put in the rice the bottom layer is placed on top and each of the other layers one row lower down, while the eggs previously in the center of the tub are placed at the edge. The entire tub is covered with a cotton mattress. The chicks and ducklings are produced in 20 to 30 days.

One of the great difficulties with this method is the inability to tell just when the eggs will hatch, which of course renders the smothering of the young very possible.

TOO QUICK WITH HIS ANSWER

Response of Court Witness Put Him Unnecessarily in a Somewhat Unfavorable Light.

At a session of county court in an outlying country, a village merchant was prosecuted for "arson." It developed that the business men of the town had retained a "special prosecutor" to assist in the case. The attorney for the defendant invariably asked each witness if he had ever contributed anything toward the support of the "special prosecutor." One old man was very zealous in his efforts to convict the defendant. The attorney started to ask him the regular "contribution" question, but the witness interrupted him and gave his answer in the middle of the question, with the following result:

"Q. Have you ever contributed anything toward the support—"

"A. No, sir; I never did—not a cent!"

"—of your family?"

The witness was excused amid the laughter of the court, jury and audience. He left the room, mad as a hornet, and was heard to mutter: "I ain't got no family."—West Publishing company.

To Tell Time at Night.

Awaking in the night and wondering what time it may be, who has not longed to see the clock without getting up and striking a light? To make this longing easy to satisfy, a firm in Paris has just put on the market a clock that by pressing a button is made to project a picture of its face in a ray of light upon the ceiling. This clock, which looks like a young cannon, stands upon a box containing three dry batteries. Its mechanism is in a metal tube, at one end of which is an ordinary dial. The push-button can be placed under the pillow or upon a table beside the bed. When one wants to see the time in the night one presses the button; this lights the lamp, which projects upon the ceiling or upon the wall a greatly magnified picture of its face, so that one can lie comfortably in bed and read the time at a glance. Another push of the button extinguishes the lamp.

Too Many Lonely Breakfasts.

Lord Tennyson, late in life, said sadly to a friend, "I have taken breakfast alone for 25 years." This was after his wife became a confirmed invalid and his family was scattered.

There are men who breakfast alone whose wives appear very vigorous at the bridge table or club meetings or the dance class, and who are, in fact, equal to almost any effort but appearing in the morning before their husbands go to business or their children—if there are any—go to school or to the park.

An eligible bachelor said the other day, "I used to dream of a pretty face across the coffee pot, but a dozen years in a smart apartment hotel have dispelled several illusions. To begin with, I hardly know a married man there who wouldn't like to keep house, but their wives won't take the trouble. Why, I know two dozen women who never get up to breakfast."—New York Times.

The Rainbow Monkey.

You have all seen black monkeys and gray monkeys and brown monkeys, but how many of you have seen a rainbow monkey?

The rainbow monkey's name is the mandril and he lives in the hilly parts of Africa. He is, indeed, a weird-looking creature. His snout is a bright scarlet, and on either side of his long hideous face are deep grooves of purple and scarlet and blue. His eyes are tiny and glow like ugly sparks of fire.

The mandril has funny, stubby ears and a tail that is only a sawed-off stump. His hind legs are a deep violet color.

In fact, if you ever see a rainbow monkey, you probably will exclaim: "There ain't no such animal!"

Electing a Goat King for a Day.

Puck fair, held at Killorglin, is one of the last of the old-time Irish fairs, and more than one story is told as to the origin of its name. Amongst them is a tradition that when Cromwell's soldiers were in Ireland a large party of troopers were coming over Kerry mountains, making for Killorglin, when they frightened a flock of goats. These immediately made off helter-skelter for Killorglin, and dashed wildly into the town headed by a great Puck. Thus warned of impending danger, the inhabitants beat off the troopers, and in gratitude dedicated a fair to their horned defender, and elected him king for a day.

MEN IN MIND IN HOPKINSVILLE

People of Prominence In The Pearl City of The Pennyroyal.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH NO. 6.

One of The Younger Business Men Who Has Built Up Big Business.

Much of Hopkinsville's prosperity is due to a number of wide-awake young men who started the old town on the up-grade ten or fifteen years ago and who have developed into leaders in their respective lines. No business house in the city has grown more rapidly than the big furniture house of the Keach Furniture Co., of which Harry A. Keach is the president and general manager.

HARRY A. KEACH.

Mr. Keach was born in Henderson county in 1877 and came to Hopkinsville in 1894. In 1898 he started a modest little furniture store, with his father, Mr. O. Keach, on Ninth street. Year by year the firm prospered, a branch of the business being the sale of furniture, stoves and some other lines on the installment plan. In a few years the business out-grew its quarters and in 1908 the firm moved into its present big four-story building on Main street, and two years later the business was incorporated. It has continued to increase at a phenomenal rate until the company is one of the strongest commercial houses of the city. The store contains 18,000 square feet of floor space and the contract has been let for a warehouse, 30 by 52 feet and four stories high in the rear of its present store, which is 25 by 150 feet, fronting on Main street. The addition will front on Eighth street.

The company delivers goods by auto-truck all over Christian county and into adjoining counties. It carries by far the largest stock of furniture in Western Kentucky.

Harry A. Keach justly ranks with Hopkinsville's most successful young business men. His business brings him into personal contact with many people and his methods make friends of his patrons. His wide popularity was strongly attested a few days ago when he was elected trustee of the city schools in a contest between several of the most prominent and popular citizens of Hopkinsville. He was elected by more than 150 majority, receiving one of the largest votes ever polled for a candidate in the city for this office.

Mr. Keach lives in a handsome home on the West Side.

FIRST RACES OF MATINEE CLUB

Famous Summers-Wills Contention Run Off And Wills Loses.

The first Matinee Club meeting was held at the Pennyroyal Fair Grounds Thursday and several hundred people attended, a majority of them from out in the county. There were a number of races to test out the young horses. The green pacer race had seven entries and Ben Winfree's horse won the race.

The long-drawn-out contention between Will Summers and Phil Wills, as to whose horse was the faster was settled to the satisfaction of one side. It was agreed to run a race and Elmo Lacy entered a horse in the same ring that beat them both.

They won each one heat and another heat was run to settle this tie and Mr. Summers' horse won. According to the agreement entered into, Mr. Wills is to convert his horse into a plow-horse for the summer and "shut up."

A lively interest was shown in the various contests and enthusiasm is running high.

LIGHTING'S WORK.

Hay Shed And Contents Quickly Destroyed.

During a thunderstorm last Wednesday a hay shed belonging to Mr. W. H. Adams, near Church Hill, was struck by lightning. The bolt set fire to the hay and the structure, and its contents, were totally destroyed. The loss is several hundred dollars. Mr. Adams has no insurance.

IS SILLY OLD SUPERSTITION

Belief Connecting Friday the Thirteenth With Disaster, However, Seems to Have Strong Hold.

Every time Friday falls on the thirteenth of the month there are headlines in newspapers owned and edited by intelligent and decently educated persons connecting this conjunction of dates with ill luck and misfortune. The reason for the practise does not clearly appear. It may be that in some cases the persons perpetrating these scare heads know no better and really think that disaster may be expected when Friday and the thirteenth come together. There are people of good abilities and even high standing in the business world who are haunted by this ancient superstition; but it is fair to suppose that in most cases it is a mere journalistic trick to attract attention, or even a joke not supposed to be seriously taken by anybody. The truth is, however, that for many thousands of people who are educated enough to read the newspapers such paragraphs are as seriously taken as an account of an earthquake or a blizzard in the West. The practise feeds on superstition, encourages it and does more harm than thoughtful editors know. Many useless fears, anxieties and regrets would be avoided if all such superstitions could be swept out of the popular mind. The harm they do is incalculable, and their effects are seen in all the most important concerns of the common life, especially in morals and religion, to the enrichment of the specious swindlers who make the public pay a heavy tax on its superstitions.—Christian Register.

HIS NATIONALITY MADE PLAIN

Auditor's Shrewd Comment on Hearing Peculiar Statement of Celebrated Astronomer.

Sir David Gill, the Scotch astronomer, was no dry-as-dust scientist. His greatest contributions to science, perhaps, were his measurements of stellar space, and to bring home to his audiences just what progress had been made in this branch he frequently told a good story on himself.

He was speaking once on the accuracy of mechanical operations as compared with those of fifty years ago. He pointed out that half a century ago an error of a second of arc was considered a very small quantity in measuring the distance of a star, "that being equivalent to the measurement of the diameter of a three-penny piece situate a mile off; whereas we could now measure within one-hundredth of a second of arc, which was like measuring a three-penny piece at a distance of one hundred miles."

Then a voice was heard from one of Sir David's listeners.

"Ye'd know he's a Scot," said the voice. "Na'an else'd bother his head about a three-penny bit a hundred miles off."

Popular suggestions.
"The weeping willow had been only eating onions, after all."

LYON-RICHARDS.

Brilliant Nuptials of Young Lady of Los Angeles, Well Known Here.

The Los Angeles Times of April 22, contains the following account of the wedding of Miss Eleanor Richards, which occurred there April 21:

"Roses were the only blossoms used in decorating last evening for the important wedding of Miss Eleanor Richards of this city and Harvey Blanchard Lyon of Oakland, which was solemnized in the First Baptist Church, Rev. C. M. Carter officiating."

"The bride, who is well known in this city, is a graduate of the Westlake School for Girls. She is the daughter of Mrs. T. W. T. Richards and the late Capt. Richards, who came to California from Virginia."

"At the service last evening she was given away by her brother, Thomas G. Richards. Her gown was an exquisite combination of white satin and real lace, covered with a tulle veil, caught in place with orange blossoms. A dainty finish was the shower of white roses and valley lilies. Her sister, Miss May Richards, in shell pink taffeta and lace, with a shower of Killarney buds and maiden-hair, assisted as maid of honor. The bridesmaids, the Misses Ruth Hutchinson, Dorothy Parkinson, Lucile Lamb, Marian Judah, Agnes Ganahl and Edith Englehart, marched down the right aisle as the ushers, Parker Lyon, Jr., of Fresno, Sidney M. Morris, of Oakland, Richard Rowett, Ernest Ganahl, Elmer Johnson and Robert Flournoy of this city, entered from the left. They met at the altar, forming a crescent for other members of the bridal party, including, besides the maid of honor, little Mildred Lyon, the flower girl, baby Will Flournoy, the ring bearer, and F. Bruce Maiden, of Oakland, who supported the groom as best man. The maids were attractive in taffeta gowns shading from deep rose to very pale pink. Cecile Brunners and maidenhair were carried. Little Miss Lyon wore an imported frock of flesh pink lingerie and carried a basket of roses."

"Following the church service, a supper to members of the two families and the bridal party was served at the family home on South Bonnie Brae street, where the same attractive rose scheme was carried out. Pink Killarneys and pink rose shaded candelabra adorned the bride's table together with a handsome cake."

"Mr. Lyon, like his bride, belongs to a prominent family. He is the son of J. L. Lyon and a brother of W. Parker Lyon, formerly Mayor of Fresno. With Mrs. Lyon he will enjoy a motor tour of the Coast before going to their new home in Oakland."

Miss Richards visited this county two years ago, a guest of her uncle, Mr. A. M. Henry, her aunt, Mrs. L. L. Leavell and other relatives.

Former Hopkinsville Man Drops Dead In California.

Mr. Henry C. Ballard, formerly a well-known citizen of this city, dropped dead of heart disease at his home at Long Beach, Cal., last Monday. He was buried in California. Mr. Ballard moved West with his family several years ago and was back here on a visit about a year ago seemingly in good health. He was in business here for many years, first as a tinner and later as a groceryman. He was about 70 years old and leaves a widow and two children, a son and a daughter.

FREDERICK MIELKE.

Mr. Frederick Mielke, one of our oldest and most esteemed citizens, died at his home near Hopkinsville, May 1, 1914. He had been in declining health for some time and his death was not unexpected. Mr. Mielke was born in Pomerania, Prussia, Sept. 5, 1825. He came to America in 1849, making his home in the State of Wisconsin. He was the youngest of several brothers, all of whom preceded him to the grave. In 1884 he moved to Kentucky and purchased the farm on which he resided at the time of his death.

Mr. Mielke was a Lutheran and was thoroughly devoted to his church. Following the ritual of his church, it was his custom every Sunday morning to call together the members of his family, read the service, and give an exposition of some chapter of the Bible. He was a successful farmer. When he bought his farm in this community it was badly run down; but by hard work and skillful management he made it one of the most productive in the county. Mr. Mielke was twice married; of these unions were born eight children, most of these reside in our community. His wife survives him; she and the children have the sympathy of our people in their bereavement.

"Asleep in Jesus! far from thee, Thy kindred and their graves may be; But there is still a blessed sleep, From which none ever wakes to weep." X. X. X.

Mr. J. W. Downer has torn away the "portico" of his residence on South Main and begun work on a commodious veranda, which will greatly improve the appearance of the house.
